PEOO OO COVINGTON AND LEXINGTON RAIL-

New York, April 2, 1863.

$500.000 COVINGTON AND LEXINGTON RAILthe Mortgage Bonds.

This Company offer for a side, at the house of their financial agents, Mesers. Winslow, Lanier & C., 22 Wall street, New York, 500 of their 7 per cent convertible bonds. The interest is payable semi-annually on the late of March and late of September, at the Bonk of America, in this city, where the principal is redocumbale in 1823.

The Covington and Lexington Railroad commences at Covington, on the Olio river, opposite the central and business perf of Cincinnati, thonce raus through Palmouth, 33 miles, Cynthians & suiles, Paris 77 miles, to Lexington 95 miles—where it connects with the Lexington and Danville Railroad, which continues on south, through Danfield, 181 miles, to Tonnessee line, 216 miles, at which point a junction is formed with the line of the Southwestern Railroad, which connects with the Chartanooga road, now in operation, and with the Southern railway system, the lines of which terminate at Charleston, Savannah, Mebille and New Orleans. Thus a continuous railway connection, of a common gauge of tive feet, is formed between the Ohlo river at Cavington and Cincinnati, and the principal ports upon the Southern Atlantic and Gulf of Maxico.

At Lexington this road meets the Louisville and Frankfort Railroad, the Mayaville roads—the trade and travel of all which destined for Covington or Cincinnati will be roquired to pass over this road.

This road is a main trunk line, connecting the South and the West. It is, in truth, the key to Kentucky, oponing to the rich and fertile lands of the State the Cincinnati and Eastern markets. In location it possesses the advantage of being forever secured from competition by the peculiar configuration of the country. It is being constructed in the most superior manner, with an almost lovel grade—there being only twenty feet recent to the mile at any point between Covington and Paris, and only thirty feet to the mile leave or Vernand Paris, and only thirty feet to the m
